Return to CIA Library

The influx of refugees at Hong Kong now averages 10,000 a week. The Hong Kong Government is debating the closing of the frontier to further immigration. Certain officials are opposed to changing the traditional policy of keeping Hong Kong an asylum for all Chinese who care to enter, but security and economic considerations will probably force the closing of the frontiers in the near future.

This document is hereby regraded to CONFIDENTIAL in accordance with the letter of 16 October 1978 from the Director of Central Intelligence to the Archivist of the United States.
